Say goodbye to high energy costs.

Say hello to a new Hybrid Heating and Cooling System.

Many people are turning to hybrid cars to save energy and money, so why not consider a hybrid system for your home?

Hybrid systems use an energy-efficient electric heat pump combined with a backup natural gas or propane furnace to heat and cool your home. The system knows when to switch from one fuel source to the other, so it's always at its most efficient. Year-round comfort and savings - it's the best of both worlds.

For more information on today's new energy-efficient Hybrid Home Heating and Cooling Systems, call your local REMC or go to www.energyadvisor.coop.
