

Huse returns from mission trip to Estonia

Joseph Huse, of rural Flora, recently returned from a mission involvement experience in the country of Estonia. He was part of an eight-member team of American Baptists from the Indianapolis region who were envoys of the denomination to the Estonian Baptist Union and the children's ministry at The Lighthouse, a community center in Tallinn, the capital city.

While in Estonia, the team visited the Baptist Seminary in Tartu, participated in worship in both Russian and Estonian Baptist churches, had an audience with the executive minister of the Evangelical Free and Baptist Union, and assisted in the work of The Lighthouse Ministries.

Work at The Lighthouse included a variety of improvements to the facility as well as classes for the children in an after-school program. The focus of the trip was children in poverty, the national theme of the American Baptist Churches USA National Ministries.

Formerly one of the Soviet occupied countries, Estonia is now a democratic country with a thriving free-market economy. About one-third the size of Indiana, Estonia has a population of 1.3 million people. Since the Soviet time ended in 1991, the people have been free to exercise their religious preferences. An ecumenical consortium of evangelicals and Baptists rank second to the dominant Lutheran churches.

As a result of the team's contacts, several follow-up opportunities for sharing in ministry are being explored including supplying books for the seminary library, used clothing for distribution among those in need, and a return visit in a series of teaching seminars.

Huse is available to speak to groups about his trip. He has a power point presentation to illustrate his experiences and observations.

Fish fry to aid local mission trip

Ablaze Youth Ministries, the youth ministry of First Assembly of God in Delphi, will depart for New Orleans, La., July 15, for a weeklong mission trip. The Home Mission Trip is designed to reach out and touch the children of the greater New Orleans area who have been affected and/or displaced by the hurricane season a year ago.

First Assembly of God's youth pastor, Bill Maynard, will lead the team of over 32 youth and adults from the Delphi area in an effort to head up a weeklong day camp for children 7-12 years of age. The local group is partnering with Hosanna Assembly of God in Marrero, La., located five miles from the downtown New Orleans area.

In an effort to meet the needs of the children they hope to reach, Ablaze Youth Ministries will host an all-you-can-eat fish fry on July 7 at Solomon's Grille in Delphi. Serving will be from 4 to 8 p.m. Tickets need to be purchased in advance and can be bought at Solomon's Grille, 765-564-4410 or Delphi First Assembly of God, 765-564-2200.

FOCUS ON THE FAMILY

By Dr. James Dobson

"Tough Love" helps parents with troubled teens

QUESTION: You have recommended that parents be willing to apologize to their kids when they are wrong and to "stay on your child's team" even when it's a losing team. This is difficult for me because my son is in full-blown rebellion. He's using drugs, flunking his classes and giving us fits at home. Is there a time to forget the nicey-nice stuff and get tough with a teenager?

Dr. Dobson

DR. DOBSON: No doubt about it. There are moments when it is appropriate to apologize, accommodate, compromise and negotiate. But there comes a time to draw a line in the dirt and say, "Enough is enough!" For youngsters who have tyrannized their families, their parents' willingness to "forgive and forget" repeatedly is interpreted as weakness. Appeasement, as we know, is never successful in pacifying a bully. It only makes him or her more angry and disrespectful.

Behavioral research has now validated that statement. Dr. Henry Harbin and Dr. Denis Madden, working at the University of Maryland's Medical School, studied the circumstances that surround violent attacks on parents by teenagers. They found that "parent battering" usually occurs when "one or both parents have abdicated the executive position" and left no one in charge — no one, that is, except the violent child. Rebellious, mean-spirited teenagers respect strength and disdain weakness — especially that borne of love. Harbin and Madden also observed that "an almost universal element" in the parent-battering cases was the parents' unwillingness to admit the seriousness of the situation. They did not call the police, even when their lives were in danger; they lied to protect their children and they continued to give in to their demands. Parental authority had collapsed.

One father was almost killed when his angry son pushed him down a flight of stairs. He insisted that the boy did not have a bad temper. Another woman was stabbed by her son, missing her heart by an inch. Nevertheless, she continued letting him live at home.

Drs. Harbin and Madden concluded that appeasement and permissiveness are related to youthful violence, and that both parents should lead with firmness. "Someone needs to be in charge," they said. I agree wholeheartedly with these psychiatrists.

Having been appointed during the Reagan administration to serve on the National Advisory Commission to the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, I became very familiar with the pattern of youthful violence. I saw cold-blooded killers who were no more than 13 years of age. Many of them came from homes where authority was weak or nonexistent. It is a formula for cranking out very tough criminals at an early age.

When you are faced with a potentially violent situation at home, you must weigh your options and take decisive action. The organization Tough Love, founded by Phyllis and David York, has been helpful to parents whose backs are to the wall. Tough Love is dedicated to helping out-of-control parents regain the upper hand in their own homes. Their basic philosophy is one of confrontation that is designed to bring a belligerent teenager to his or her senses. You might give them a call. To do nothing is to risk the unthinkable.

QUESTION: How do you feel about year-round schools in areas where overcrowding makes them advantageous?

DR. DOBSON: I know there are administrative advantages to year-round schools, especially since the facilities are not standing idle two months a year as they are under the current system. Nevertheless, many parents say year-round schools are very hard on them. Siblings attending different schools may have their vacations at different times, making it impossible for families to take trips together. It is also more difficult to coordinate children's time off with parents' schedules. In short, year-round schools represent just one more hardship on families seeking to do fun and recreational things together each year.
