Burlington Extension Homemakers Associate Club met recently with seven members attending. Margaret Mabbitt was hostess.

Susie Neher was guest speaker. She told about quilts that were started in 3400 B.C. in Egypt. She said quilts were made as a diary of each person. Batting was put in quilt in 1846. Until 1936, colors were only gray, blue or black. For a time, quilting went out of favor and then in the 1970s it became popular again. Do not put quilts in direct light, do not store them in plastic, do not have them in direct contact with wood or cedar. To store a quilt, wrap it in a sheet.

Museum curator honored for volunteer service

Comet staff report

Phyllis Moore, an Indiana state registered historian and the curator of Carroll County Historical Society Museum, has been recognized for 20 years of volunteer service on behalf of Indiana County Historical Society, and the Indiana Historical Bureau.

It was Moore, along with a group of Gamma Gamma Nus, who cleaned the museum in 1966, after it had been deserted for nearly 30 years. The museum was located on the third floor of the courthouse, and Moore said everything was covered with a layer of coal soot.

At that time, there were no organized genealogical records, but patrons visiting the museum asked Moore for help finding records of their ancestors. Over the years, Moore has managed to compile an entire library of genealogical records which are sought by researchers from all over the country.

Moore received a certificate in recognition of her years of volunteer efforts, at a banquet hosted by the Indiana Historical Society on Sept. 16.
