Bedroom, and the Delphi Class of 1958 Sewing Room have made the house a show place where visitors to Canal Park can experience life in the canal era.

Lamb said two rooms remain to be renovated and furnished, awaiting sponsors and workers. She said one of the rooms will likely be furnished as a children's bedroom.

"We consider the preservation of this house and making it available for public viewing worthwhile endeavors brought about by willing sponsors, donors and hard-working volunteers," commented Dan McCain, Canal Association president.

The Reed Case House will be open for public viewing during Christmas at the Canal on Saturday, Dec. 9, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 10, from 1 to 4 p.m. Admission is free. Tours can also be arranged by contacting the Canal Center at 765-564-2870 or Mark Smith at 765-563-3349.

Reed Case House – before and after
The top photo shows the Case House as it appeared in the 1980s, before renovation. The other photo was taken by the Comet this week. The 1844 house has been restored as much as possible to its original state.

Entry hall
The first-floor hall and staircase have changed dramatically since the Case House was first acquired. After layers of paint were removed, walnut railings emerged. Artist Terry Lacy recreated the faux marble wall treatment. Current photo by Jennifer Archibald
