ond, $126.26; third, $95.17; fourth, $92.87; fifth, $95.23; sixth through eighth, $95; and high school will be per course.

Walker explained sharper increases for first and second grades fees were said to cover materials costs associated with the Breakthrough to Literacy program.

"It might go down a little," Walker stated.

Non-payment of textbook fees during the past several years have caused the corporation to run a negative balance of approximately $200,000 in the textbook fund.

"That is real money," Walker commented. "Essentially we're borrowing money to cover that fund. We're going to have to get enough money in another fund to be able to make up for it."

Walker said credit cards would be accepted for textbook payments this fall. He hoped that would help the fee collection process be more fruitful.

Letter of petition presented

During public comments, Camden resident Tracie Swayze read a letter of petition signed by approximately 300 DCSC patrons. She said many questions were still unanswered and requested the board halt its re-alignment plans. She questioned statements made by board members that academic improvement would be corporation-wide.

"Camden is the only school that met AYP (adequate yearly progress)," Swayze stated. "It (re-alignment) will adversely affect all elementary students in the corporation."

Swayze asked the board to take the petition's statements and requests under advisement.

Resler responded it had already been considered due to requests made at a May 24 public meeting between Camden residents and corporation representatives.

"You must ask the board to bring it up," Resler explained.

"I'm asking now," Swayze responded.

Camden Town Council President Pete Wagoner also addressed the board to re-iterate concerned patrons' requests. He said he did not think re-alignment was well-planned and unanticipated effects would be detrimental. He said many people moved to Camden specifically so their children could attend its elementary school.

"It's been a drawing point for the town," Wagoner told the board. "You need support, not a remonstrance."

In a follow-up interview, Walker said he was excited to see anticipated positive effects surface next year. He expressed remorse that Camden, which was the only school to make adequate yearly progress, was still considered a better school than other DCSC schools.

Walker said he didn't think some residents understood the difference between the schools' populations and how restructuring could help improve grades corporation-wide.

"It just tears me up," he lamented.

The board approved a change to the middle school athletic handbook concerning student athlete academic eligibility. Grades will be checked less often and a grace period will be offered to give students the opportunity to work themselves back to eligible player status. Athletes will be allowed to practice and travel with the team, but not play during academic probation.

Resignations/employment

Resignations were approved for: Joe Brown, third grade teacher, morning supervisor and Camden fifth and sixth-grade basketball coach; Shannon Rader, high school vocational aide; and Brandon Richie, high school science teacher and junior varsity basketball coach. High school Spanish teacher Sue Ann Cornell's retirement was approved.

Classified staff approved for employment were: Jared Cree and Bill Maynard, high school assistant varsity football coaches; Shannon Rader, middle school treasurer; Shonda Isaacs, middle school yearbook sponsor; Joshua Pine, summer power washer; Melissa Hefner, bus maintenance assistant; Jay Dennison, high school pom sponsor; Gary Edmundson, high school girls' assistant varsity basketball coach; Sara Brosman, high school musical director; Bruce Brown, high school volunteer varsity football coach; Scott Roth, high school volunteer assistant football coach; and Kameron Baner, high school volunteer varsity football coach and volunteer wrestling coach.

Certified staff employment approved were for Chip Dale, high school vocational business teacher, and Tana Lehr, third grade teacher at Delphi Community Elementary School.

Middle school summer remediation teachers will be Jennifer Landis for English and Stuart Mathis for math.

The next regular board meeting will be July 9 at 7 p.m. in the corporation office conference room.

According to the Carroll County Sheriff's Office, a two-month-old infant was found near death in Rock Creek Township Monday morning. The male child was rushed to St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Lafayette where he was pronounced dead.

Burlington names new rep to EDC

Comet staff report

Councilman Wayne Swaim submitted his resignation as a Burlington representative on the Carroll County Economic Development Corporation at last week's meeting of the Burlington Town Council. The council appointed Jay Bordner as his replacement.

President Dick Davis reported that Creek Run Environmental Corp. has scheduled its first water treatment at Mara Mart on June 6. He also said that the waste companies had repositioned the dump-

"The death is still under investigation," Det. Steve Mullin told the Comet Tuesday afternoon. "We don't have a lot of information right now. The cause of death is pending the microscopic and toxicology reports."

Mullin said the Tippecanoe County Coroner is in charge of the death investigation because the child was pronounced dead in Tippecanoe County. The autopsy was performed at Ball Memorial Hospital in Muncie. Mullin said the lab results will take between two weeks and a month to receive.

"We don't want to rush anything," Mullin said. "We want it all to be done completely so that we have the total story when they are received."

sters at local businesses as requested.

The quote for tree removal and wastewater line work in the alley between Seventh and Eighth streets and east of SR 29 by Carman Excavating was approved. Work is expected to be complete in July.

The town is in receipt of the leaf vacuum. The town's leaf burning ban will not be revised, however, Indiana open burning laws will be enforced.

Bryan Collins requested that the alley be closed for the Benefit Ride/Hog Roast at Burlington Pizza property on June 30. Following discussion about adjacent properties, restroom facilities, noise, and liability insurance they agreed to close the alley for the event once agreement conditions are met and upon signing of the indemnification agreement.

Stan Moore requested permission to remove old cement culverts near Jackson and Third streets. Swaim suggested that Carman remove culverts while in town working on tree removal.

The next regular meeting will be July 11 in the town hall.
