

Farmers asked to participate in online BMP survey

Comet staff report

The Indiana Soybean Alliance (ISA) is partnering with the Conservation Technology Information Center (CTIC) in West Lafayette, and The Fertilizer Institute (TFI) in Washington, D.C., to conduct a second Best Management Practices (BMPs) survey specific to Indiana farms.

As with the national survey, the goal of the online survey is to collect information indicating the barriers to adoption of BMPs and nutrient management plans.

"By collecting the same information on a state level, CTIC can identify which practices are most widely adopted and also address barriers to adoption within each state and region," says CTIC

Executive Director Karen Scanlon. "We will be able to assist producers in addressing the specific challenges they face at the local level."

To participate in the 10-minute survey, visit CTIC's website, www.conservationinformation.org, and click the link, "Indiana BMP Survey." CTIC will be collecting information until April 15.

The ISA - the state's soybean checkoff organization - is working with CTIC to encourage Indiana producers to participate in the survey.

"We know Indiana farmers are good stewards of our land and natural resources," says Chris Novak, ISA Executive Director. "As we work to expand crop and livestock production opportunities in our state, we need to be able to show Hoosiers that this growth can come with sound stewardship of our natural resources."

For more information about the national survey and to view the results, visit www.conservationinformation.org and click on "BMP Survey Results" under "Just Released!" on the home page.

"One caveat. After practicing for over 45 years, and 1000's of hours of advanced education with the masters of dentistry, we've chosen to narrow the focus of our practice to things we enjoy doing and are good at. We love creating beautiful smiles and restoring complex cases. If you have a smile that is not all you want it to be, or have broken, chipped, unsightly or missing teeth and would like to better understand the choices available - we would love to help!"
