154th Old Settlers Celebration Remembering the 1950s and '60s.

THANK YOU

The Comet thanks the following for providing photos:
Carroll County Historical Society Museum,
Joe and Barbara Jones, Lorraine Heffner Popejoy,
Pat Wagoner Wisler-Meade, Phil and Cindy Jones,
Sandy Cook Roth, and Doris Oylar Harter.

A crowd observes the National Guard Unit, Company B, 293rd Infantry, marching down Main St. in Delphi during the Fourth of July parade in 1950.

Joe Jones, left, is helping put up a sign for the second annual Farm Progress Show, which was held Oct. 7, 1954, on the Miles T. Martin farm, east of Camden. Jones was a Purdue University student and Farm Progress Show assistant.

This photo of the Flora Theatre and Theatre Coffee Shop (left) is from the 1950s. Joe and Cora St. Amand owned both, and Esther Flora operated the coffee shop. The St. Amands sold the theatre to Bill White, who was the last owner.

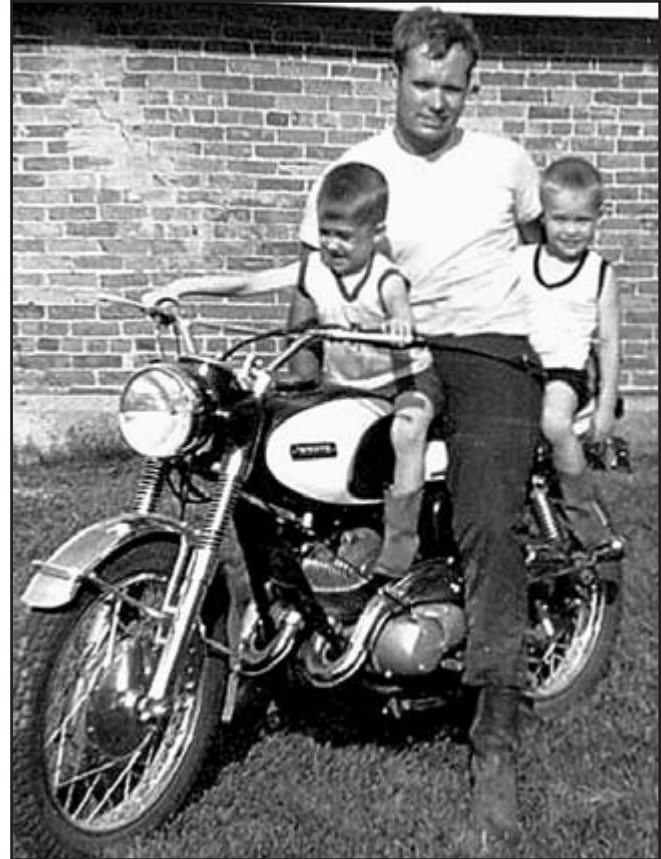

Frank Fitch (standing) was a long-time owner of Wynkoop Pharmacy on Washington St., Delphi. This photo was taken in the 1950s. Wynkoop's or Fitch's, as it was sometimes called, was a hang-out for the high school kids. There was a soda fountain and table and chairs in the back of the store. Later when the soda fountain was taken out, older folks came in for coffee and to catch up on all the news.

Flora guys in the State Legion (bowling) Tournament in 1954 were: Front - Don Brower, Raymond Brower. Back - Boyd Wheeler, Dana Brower, Bob Heffner.

The Roxy Theatre was located on the north side of the courthouse square on Franklin St. in Delphi.

Ricky and Robby Roth are "big stuff," sitting on the motorcycle with their uncle, Ed Cook, in the 1960's

A fine selection of cars and trucks can be seen in the Mann Chevrolet lot in the 1950s. This is still Mann's car lot today.
