Delphi Community Elementary School celebrates Red Ribbon Week

Comet staff report

Students at Delphi Community Elementary School celebrated Red Ribbon Week Oct. 27-30 with various activities. The theme was "I've Got Better Things To Do Than Drugs!"

Students participated by making posters outside the classroom explaining what they are interested in instead of drugs. They also dressed up every day of the week with each day representing a different theme.

Members of DCHS SADD spoke with students on Oct. 28 about their various interests in activities and sports and also to read to them.

DCES students from four different classes and school counselor Natalie Betz ended the week by assisting Phil Austin with a landscaping project.

Enhancing school's appearance

Four Delphi Community Elementary School classes helped local landscape artist Phil Austin with a project at their school. Students added mulch (donated by Michelle and Jason Pearson), plants and decorative brick around the sign in front of the building. Coordinating the Red Ribbon Week activity was school counselor Natalie Betz. Photo provided

Free meal shows farmers they're appreciated

Comet staff report

Carroll FFA Chapter annually honors and thanks the farming community with a meal, called the Farmer's Dinner. It occurs during harvest time.

The meal includes roast pork sandwiches, potato chips, applesauce, a drink, and angel food cake. This year, students packaged about 100 dinners. The hog is usually roasted at the school.

Letters are sent out to all the farmers in the area, and they can reserve as many dinners as they like. The meals are delivered to the farmers or they pick them up at school or at one of the local elevators as they drop off their grain. This is done after school, so the farmers have it for their evening meal.

The FFA members deliver meals to Co-Alliance Co-op, Remington Seeds, and Hog Slat, and then stay to hand out the dinners to both farmers and the employees at the businesses.

Carroll FFA advisors are Steve and Melissa Keown. They initiated the project about four years ago.

"It was started because we felt we needed to show appreciation to the farming community, because producers are hardworking and sometimes underappreciated or taken for granted. They produce our food and put many hours into what is a labor of love. They help feed the world and should be appreciated," Melissa Keown said.

Local farmer Dave Lambert said the farming community appreciates the good gesture by the FFA.

Young entrepreneurs

This summer, a Junior Girl Scout from Troop 41153, along with her parents, grew zucchini in their garden and then donated the zucchini to the troop. The entire Junior Troop teamed up to bake over 45 loaves of zucchini bread that were sold during Flora's recent Moonlight Madness event. Troop members who manned the sales booth were, from left: Havannah Kauffman, Kinsey Barnes, unknown helper, Schalene Shafer, Tayah Miller, and Lexi Schnarr. All the profit from the bread sales will be used for the troop's summer 2010 trip to Savannah, Ga., birthplace of Girl Scout founder Juliette Gordon Low. "Our success would not have been possible without the help of our girls and their parents, Flora First Brethren Church, and all of our customers," said Heather Kauffman, troop leader and Carroll County service manager. Brad,
 I can't apologize for who I am, only how I am. I am sorry for not always knowing the right things to say or do.
 I do love you very much,
 Lora
